Soph Drowns After Exams

On May 29, following the culmination of final examinations, twenty year old sophomore Paul Matthews of East Farmingdale, Long Island, New York was killed in a drowning accident in Whitehall, New York, while on his way home for the summer vacation.

The accident occurred while Matthews was attempting to aid a fellow classmate who was in trouble crossing a cable over the water-filled quarry at which they had stopped. The cable parted, dumping Matthews and friend into the water. Friends on shore were able to rescue the latter, but Matthews, not being able to swim, was drowned.

A native of Greece, Kavathas holds degrees from the University of Montreal and taught at the Plato Academy of Languages there for nine years, and has written a number of textbooks and articles on language.

Hanagan holds degrees from Providence College, the University of Detroit, and is a doctoral candidate at the University of Toronto. He has taught at the University of Detroit and at St. Michael's College of the University of Toronto.

Lahage holds degrees from Harvard College and Boston University, and has taught at South Kingstown, R.I., High School and the Mary Brooks School.

Dorm Rooms Are Crowded Due To Large Frosh Class

There is some tripling of freshmen in what are usually double rooms at St. Michael's College this year. All of the freshmen in Alumni Hall and some of those in Ryan Hall are living three to a room, in what formerly were two-bed rooms.

Rev. John A. Stankiewicz, S.S.E., Vice-President for Student Affairs, explained that an unusually high percentage of those who paid their pre-arrival fee here actually showed up. In other years, many freshmen who were accepted by St. Michael's went to other schools. This year, that figure was unexpectedly small.

NUMBER GAME

There are over 360 freshmen, he said. In order to accommodate all of them it has been necessary to place three students in some rooms. Also, some students are living off campus at St. Francis Villa, 86 College Parkway.

He made it clear that the college administration will continue to work to alleviate the problem of over crowding. It will try to find off-campus accommodations for upperclassmen, moving the freshmen into the vacated rooms, he added.

He also said that the college is attempting to reach an agreement with the Sheraton Motel in order to allow students to live at the motel. This is being done presently with Champlain College students, and he hoped a similar arrangement could be made for St. Michael's.

Next year, almost 90 beds will be made available at the Ethan Allen campus. This will alleviate any problems of over crowding, and may even permit the accommodation of more students. The facility is scheduled for completion in September of 1968.

The administration is also making efforts to provide study areas for the students in Jemery Hall, the residence hall lounges, etc.

Forum Hears Zelenski Speech

By Walter Hawver

President Joseph F. Zelenski, Jr., opened the first meeting of the 1967-68 Student Forum session by giving the "State of the Forum" address.

Sounding out the encouraging aspects of this year's possible advancements and accomplishments, Zelenski reviewed the major changes which had taken place during the summer.

The placing of laymen in some of those positions vacated last year was listed among these major changes.

OLD ORDER FALLS

He also gave assurance that secretaries would no longer run the college and that the offices of administrators will be open for the student's convenience.

Postulating a mood of student-administrative attitudes and relations for the coming year, Zelenski said that communications along these lines had been improved and that both parties should now work hand in hand, through candid relations, to bring about changes beneficial to all.

The newly revised organization of some standing committees was announced with specific changes and members to be defined and appointed in the near future.

He listed them as the curriculum, library, college development, student status and student affairs committees.

He pointed out in closing that the burden of responsibility had now shifted to the student body and its leaders, and that in the future, the blame for mistakes would rest mainly with them.

In other major developments, Rep. William Bigoness presented a successful motion to have Father Roger J. Lacharite, the college treasurer, come before the Forum to explain why the student association fee was vetoed.

In debate which preceded the vote, Rev. John A. Stankiewicz, S.S.E., pointed out that Fr. Lacharite was not the only decision maker in the matter.

TREASURER SAYS

Zelenski interjected later in the meeting the fact of his having spoken to Fr. Lacharite about this and of his direct question to him concerning this matter. At that time, Fr. Lacharite told him that the inclusion of a $10 Activities Fee was an unnecessary burden on the parents who pay the bill. Fr. Lacharite substantiated the College's position further by speaking of the planned tuition increases for next year.

First Lecturer

"What Do Those Ancient Papers Say?"

Associate dean and professor of classics at Brooklyn College, Dr. Lewis will accompany his commentary with slides of papyri, exhumed within the last 50 years from Egyptian tombs, and slides demonstrating some of the techniques of papyrology.

The lecture is free and open to the public. A seminar, with time and place to be announced at Thursday's lecture, will be conducted Friday by Dr. Lewis. This also is free and open to the public.

Dr. Lewis, who has been on the Brooklyn College faculty for many years, is a graduate of City College of New York. He received his doctorate from the University of Paris.

The author or co-author of a half a dozen books, his latest contributions include: "Samothrace, I: The Ancient Literary Source"; and "Roman Civilization," in two volumes.

In addition, he has penned about 50 articles published in American and foreign journals.

In recent years, these have been concerned primarily with provincial administration in the Roman Empire and in particular with the practice known as "liturgy," whereby different groups of the population were required to perform various public services.

The source materials for these studies are found principally in papyri and inscriptions.

The Observer

By A Concerned Student

Observing is a fine art, an art that brings to a person learned in its practice many pleasurable, interesting, and worthwhile experiences. But observation is no always the most desirable of occupations, especially when it would be better to participate.

There are surely many examples of this reality: for no one prefers to watch a Tom Collins, we rather drink it; to watch America's Cup race is fine, but it is much better to be riding on the Intrepid; to gaze at go-go girls is a great sport, but most would rather dance with them.

But I don't intend to speak of what it means to write an Observer column, that is a topic I will leave to the editors. To get down to brass tacks, I want to write about the Liturgy, or more specifically, about last week's Mass of the Holy Spirit.

Ideally (and is the ideal so impossible?) the liturgy is an ACTION, and action calling for full participation; its celebration is no place for passive observation.

But alas, that Thursday afternoon, was the time of little, if any celebration; it seemed rather to be a time given over to the practice of a cold and sterile rite wherein specific rote functions were carried out.

According to the books, Christianity is supposed to be a life of love, the Mass is the expression, in community, of that Love. There was little, if any, room for free expression of what was really, at least according to theory, going on. As a member of that congregation, I find myself asking what does all this mean? Does this have any relevance? What does it all have to do with me?

Whether or not I was there doesn't seem to have made much difference. I probably should have joined up with those students who went to Burlington just so they would miss the ceremony.

For those who had foresight enough to miss the whole bit, let me describe it for you.

An entrance hymn that few were able to sing accompanied the seniors (caps and gowns) and the faculty into the Chapel. If this was to be the beginning of a joyful prayer for a good academic year, it was a poor start.

The seniors sat in the south wing, the faculty in the north, and the congregation sat in the main section. We did not, to say the least, take up many seats.

The "Lord, have mercy's" did not seem to be very prayerful, possibly because they were treated like something that had to be done with quickly. For some strange reason the Epistle and the Gospel were short and to the point.

It is too bad that the same can not be said about the sermon. I would be more than willing to give you some of the ideas from the sermon, but I can't remember many of them. I'd say that most of those present couldn't give you a report either, even though they've heard the same thing once or twice before.

I must pass over the Canon of the Mass, since it passed quickly without incident. But I would be interested in finding out if we were to sit, stand, or kneel at that time. SOMEONE in the Chapel must have been right, we ALL seemed to be doing something different.

At the end of the Canon, when we were all called upon to give our assent to the sacrificial action which was taking place, there was little enthusiasm. The "Great amen" was more like a communal yawn.

The "Out Father" was followed, in due time, by American kiss of peace, a handshake. It was passed around in a fashion resembling a game of catch-as-catch-can, even though those of us in the main area of the chapel were somewhat forgotten in the course of events.

Communion, where all hopefully share in the COMMON UNION of the Mystical Body of Christ, was anything but a common action. We were supposedly all brothers around the Supper Table of our Lord, and yet most of us didn't eat.

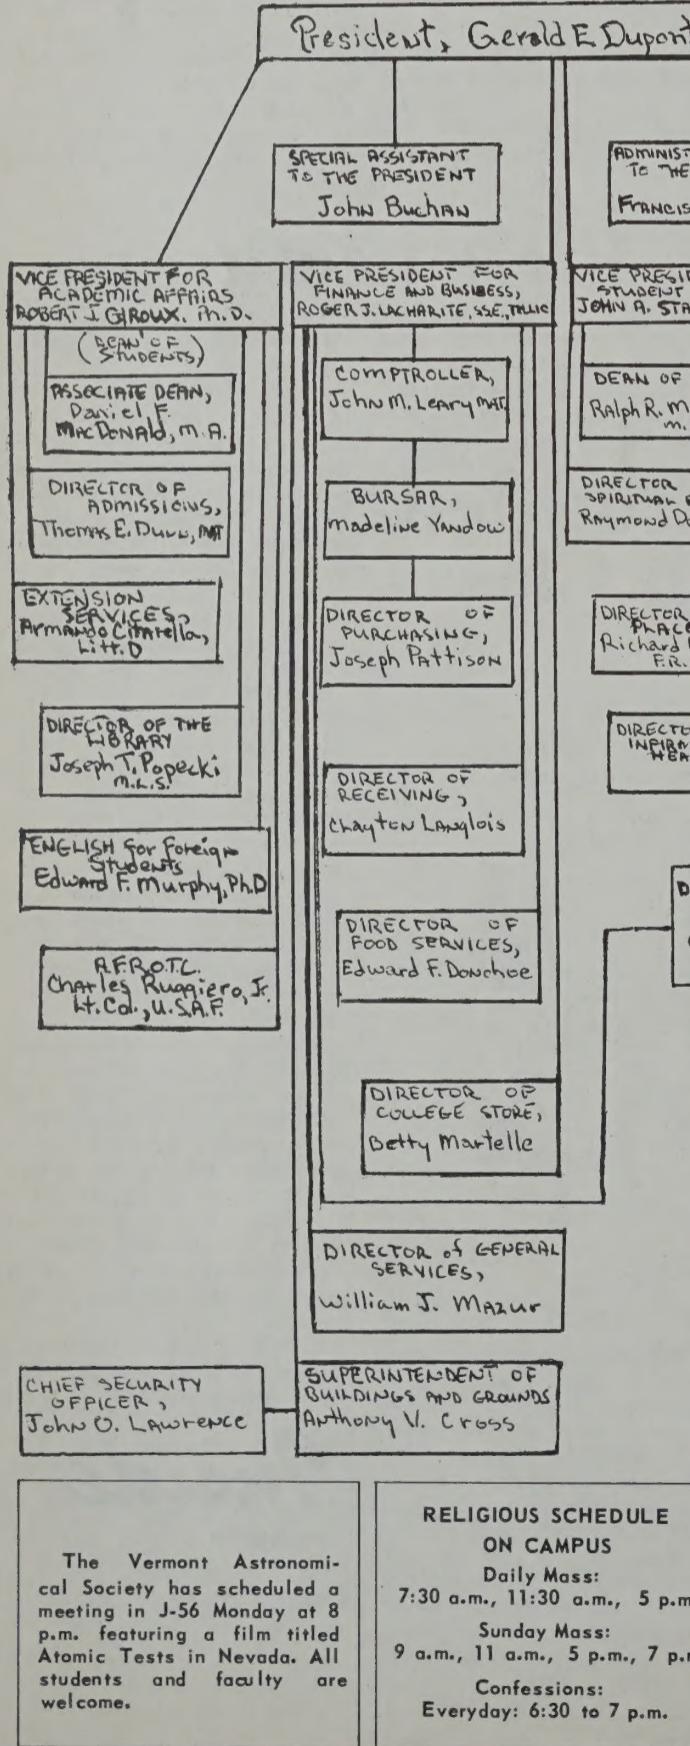

If few participated in the eating, fewer still participated in the singing of the communion hymn. But they had good reason. It seems that the hymn itself was a four or five part recital on the part of the Glee Club. Lasting about two minutes it was all in incomprehensible Latin. I must admit that it was beautiful - meaningless but beautiful.

For some reason there were to be two hymns at the end of Mass. I guess that by this time the Holy Spirit (after all it was His Mass) must have decided to rescue the whole operation. It seems that we were all spared sitting, or standing, or kneeling through the first hymn (Laudate Dominum) which would have been beautiful and pointless at the same time.

Well, anyway, as all were leaving some were singing a hymn to the Holy Spirit. I guess it was a fervent plea to Him to pick up the pieces after we had all made a mad dash out.

For Your Information

The diagram presented here is a chain of command for the college. It is hoped that its use will facilitate any student's receiving attention from the proper office on any matter that affects his life on this campus.

ICC Optimistic About Coming Year's Events

By John Donovan

With the new school year well under way, the Intercollegiate Council of the greater Burlington area will soon begin its 1967-1968 program.

In the past, the council has served as a link between the colleges in the area.

Douglas Knoblauch, Class of '69 at St. Michael's College, and president of the council has expressed his hope for an even greater success this year.

The main activity planned by the council this year is a political week-end, planned tentatively for the late part of winter or early Spring. The event will take place at UVM and will be handled by campus leaders from surrounding schools. The work and planning will be coordinated by the ICC.

In the past, the council has been faced with three major problems: the apathy of the average student toward the council, the "who needs you?" attitude of the University of Vermont, and a serious lack of funds, he said.

However, several steps have been taken to overcome these problems. The ICC is hopeful that an increased monetary request will contribute to the scarce funds now available in its treasury.

A publicity campaign is under way to familiarize the students with the council, in the hope that some interest might be aroused on the campuses.

Other InterCollegiate Councils have been organized recently in such places as Boston and Albany. It is very possible that some type of convention might be held among these various councils, so that their members might share their ideas and have a chance to discuss in detail the functions of the ICC, he said.

With these goals in mind, Knoblauch and the Inter Collegiate Council are indeed optimistic concerning this year's activities. An active student interest can help greatly in forming the potential success of the council.

tests will be given at nearly 500 locations throughout the United States, ETS said.

Results of the National Teacher Examinations are used by many large school districts as one of several factors in the selection of new teachers and by several states for certification or licensing of teachers. Some colleges also require all seniors preparing to teach to take the examinations.

On each full day of testing, prospective teachers may take the Common Examinations, which measure the professional preparation and general cultural background of teachers, and one of 13 Teaching Area Examinations which measure mastery of the subject they expect to teach.

Prospective teachers should contact the school systems in which they seek employment, or their colleges, for specific advice on which examinations to take and on which dates they should be taken.

A Bulletin of Information containing a list of test centers, and information about the examinations, as well as a Registration Form, may be obtained from college placement officers, school personnel departments, or directly from National Teacher Examinations, Box 911, Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey 08540.

Two members of the Peace Corps from Washington D.C., will be on the St. Michael's College campus October 10 through 12.

The team will be composed of Miss Mary Michlin, a graduate of Trinity College, Vt. who served two years in the Philippines, and George Clarkley, a graduate of Boston College, who served two years in Ghana. They will be hosted by student leaders at the college.

During their visitation, the team will conduct interviews from the Alliot Hall Foyer information booth, show movies, make classroom visits, and conduct two examinations for those wishing to join the Peace Corps. The tests will be that of the short form.

Before the Peace Corps team visits the campus, Henry G. Fairbanks, Ph.D. professor of humanities, with the permission of James Ryan, president of the Class of '68, will speak to the seniors about the opportunities in the Peace Corps service.

He will be assisted by Dennis Hauptly, William Longenecker, and Robert Taft of the Class of '68, all of who will be entering the Peace Corps upon graduation. The announcement of the Senior Meeting concerning this matter will be posted.

According to Dr. Fairbanks, graduates from St. Michael's are "highly esteemed" in the eyes of Peace Corps officials in Washington, D.C. Of the 47 students that have entered the Corps from St. Michael's, there has only been

John D. Engels, assistant professor of English at St. Michael's College, has just recently finished a volume of poetry entitled, "Hunting Patterns," which will be published next spring by the University of Pittsburgh Press.

In educational institutions throughout the country Engels has given readings of his poetry and this volume will contain his publications since 1958.

Two books, "Writing Techniques," and "Experience and Imagination," have also been written through the combined efforts of Engels and his father Professor Norbert Engels of the English Department of the University of Notre Dame.

These books were published by David McKay Company, Inc., of New York.

Dr. Murphy Predicts Bright Future For TESL

The head of the St. Michael's English department predicts a bright future for teachers of English as a second language, not only in other countries but also in the United States.

Edward F. Murphy, Ph.D. who heads the college's undergraduate programs in English as well as its foreign and graduate programs, says the potential for American teachers in the field has widened in the past few years.

"In the past, we thought of the English for foreign students program as being almost exclusively for foreign students," the affable Dr. Murphy explains.

But, he points out, there are language problems in American cities. "We have the Puerto Ricans in New York, for example," he notes.

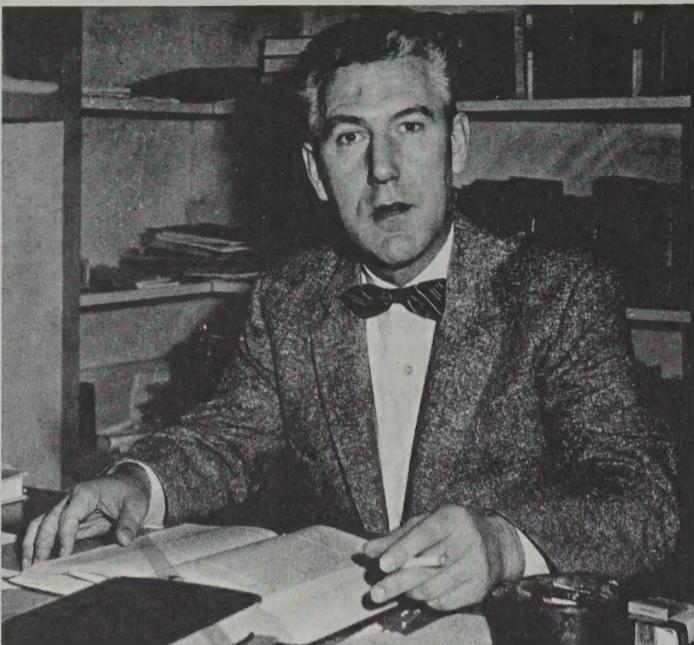

There are similar problems in the Southern states and Texas as well as all the northern border of the country, Dr. Murphy says.

"Teachers need to be trained to cope with the problem of students who are speaking English for the first time when they enter school," he declares.

Teachers who are studying for master's degrees in teaching English as a second language no longer need be thought of as preparing themselves to teach only foreign students, he says.

"They might well be teaching American students for whom English is truly a second language," Dr. Murphy says.

Students in the St. Michael's graduate program are given a broad training in English, covering linguistics, literature and educational methodology.

Eventually, Dr. Murphy sees the possibility of having some 200 foreign students in the St. Michael's program, many of whom would be master's candidates. He also believes there will be a substantial development within the master's program.

This year, St. Michael's has some 100 students enrolled in the program, including 20 who are seeking master's degrees. Eight-teen students have received master's degrees in the teaching of Plans call for the conversion of other buildings on the second campus to dormitories, a dining hall and officers for the language program, Dr. Murphy says.

New Buildings, New Look As Campus Scene Changes

Returning upperclassmen and new freshmen were greeted by several changes in the physical appearance of the St. Michael's College campus this year.

The most noticeable feature of the changing campus scene is the new Jeremiah K. Durick Library, a circular brick structure being constructed on the western edge of the campus.

Designed by Freeman French Freeman of Burlington, the building is nearing completion and will be dedicated next year to the late Dr. Durick, who in his lifetime established a tradition of scholarly ideals and dedication at St. Michael's.

The new library is 130 ft. in diameter and is being constructed with provisions for a quadrant-type addition, permitting an increase in seating and shelf capacity of 80 to 90 per cent, should such expansion prove necessary by the growth demands of the college.

ETHAN ALLEN CAMPUS

On the college's second campus, located on the site of what was formerly historic Fort Ethan Allen, a multi-purpose educational facility is being set up for the college's graduate program.

It will contain a reading center, counsellor education section, and model classrooms which will be used in the Master of Arts in Teaching degree program.

The reading center will service St. Michael's College students and will also be available to local teachers who want to develop more skills in this area, according to Dr. Robert J. Giroux, newly appointed academic vice-president and dean of the college.

The counsellor education section will be set up to allow counsellors in training to work with young people from the local area. The section will also contain a video-tape center. Video-tape will be employed by the counsellors when working with youngsters. After sessions are completed, the counsellors will be able to observe their methods on a 23-inch screen.

This section will also contain a new testing center, which will be used both in programs for graduate students and in individual testing of undergraduates in cooperation with a guidance and testing department, under the direction of Rev. Joseph L. Hart, S.S.E.

A second building at the Ethan Allen Campus is being converted into model classrooms which will be equipped with closed circuit television and other educational materials to be used in the M.A.T. program.

The classrooms will contain resource centers in mathematics, social studies, languages and science. The classrooms are designed to accommodate large groups. Several smaller groups as well will be able to use the resource centers while instruction is in progress.

The model classrooms, which lend themselves to a combination of group instruction and independent study will be made available to local teachers who want to perfect themselves as instructors and in the use of educational materials.

They will also serve as models to students and others who are interested in modern classroom design.

FOREIGN STUDENTS

Eventually, the college's English as a Second Language program for foreign students will also be located on the Ethan Allen campus, where there will be a larger laboratory, new tape facilities and an audio-visual center.

Junior Class Features Recent Movies

"The Junior Class Movie, a traditional fund-raising activity that has always been looked upon as a weekend pastime when there is nothing better to do has undergone a number of changes for the coming year."

So says Marshall Kean, chairman of the Friday and Sunday night movies at the St. Michael's Playhouse. He added: "The Class of 1969 has compiled a list of films that, it is hoped, will encourage a more active interest in quality motion pictures."

Among the films to be shown this year will be: "The Birds"; "The Guns of Navarone"; "Zorba the Greek"; "Mutiny on the Bounty"; "The Haunting"; "Hush, Hush, Sweet Charlotte"; "Alfie"; "Becket"; and "Butterfield 8".

To add diversified interest to the campus movies, the Junior Class has also arranged for the showing of several older, classic movies.

Included in the schedule are the following: "My Little Chickadee," starring Mae West and W.C. Fields; "A Night At the Opera," with the Marx Brothers; "The Golden Age of Comedy," a series of old comedies featuring Charlie Chaplin, the Keystone Cops, Buster Keaton, Laurel and Hardy, Ben Turpin and many others; and "The Phantom of the Opera," starring Lon Chaney.

Other new innovations include a door prize of approximately $5.

Many Grads To Further Education

More than 35 per cent of the June graduates of St. Michael's College have begun graduate study at colleges and universities throughout the country.

The choices of the Class of '67 range from graduate study at their alma mater to Marquette and the University of Vermont to St. Mary's University in Texas, among others.

Some 35 students are currently serving with the U.S. Air Force, many of them in flight training programs, while eight have enlisted in the U.S. Navy and five in the U.S. Army.

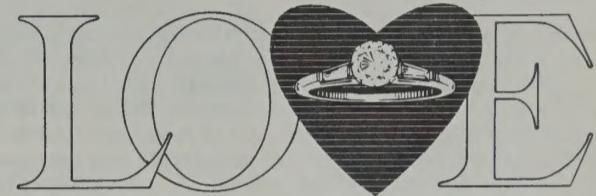

Four graduates each are in the Peace Corps and the VISTA program.

The QUEST, St. Michael's literary publication, is planning on two issues this year. In returning to the original plans upon which the magazine was founded, the editors hope that there will be enough student participation to make possible such a schedule of publication.

The deadline for copy for the first issue is December 1. Any form of literary effort will be considered. Material to be submitted should be placed in post office box for Founders No. 225 or given to one of the editors.

SMC BOOTERS DROP OPENER

Plattsburgh Downs Knights

Ray Pentkowski Injures Leg

Time Out

By JACK SCHMIDT

Here we go again! . . . The soccer team's disappointing defeat to a well organized Plattsburgh team should not be typical of what is to come this season . . . Much depends on the extent of All-Stater Ray Pentkowski's leg injury . . . If the booters can get moving, they should make a strong bid for the NCAA playoffs. Pentkowski and fellow All-Stater, Tim Shay, along with high scorer Bob Winship are being counted on for the main thrust. Junior Jim Lawler is filling the shoes of graduated goalie, Bob Dunshee . . . The booters have the potential and with a little SMC enthusiasm, they might go all the way . . . Pentkowski is being scouted by the Boston pros.

Rumor has it that the football team, although lacking some of the flesh it had last year, will be fast and furious . . . Spirit is running high . . . The Homecoming contest with Utica is the big one to win . . . Utica is bringing back twenty-two lettermen, and is said to have a strong fast backfield with a good crop of receivers. Last year the Knights edged out the Pioneers 6-0 so it should be a breath-taking event for both Michaelmen and Alumni . . . Speaking of Homecoming, who was it that put the lid on an excellent opportunity for the seniors to get together with the alumni members at the dinner dance?

See the two new teams on the SMC cager's schedule? Sacred Heart U. is "bush" but Southern Conn. could be tough . . . New England's best starts practice Oct. 15th.

Off campus bits . . . What do you think of the AL pennant race? Have you asked a bookie recently what he thinks about it? . . . Don't . . . I'd like to see Boston take it . . . with "Yaz" taking MVP and hopefully the triple crown . . . Dick Williams for manager of the year . . . The series? I have to take the Cards - but it might go the full seven . . . the Giants for the NFL Eastern division? . . . No . . . the Redskins or Dallas . . . Much to my disliking, the Packers will take all . . . I hope I'm wrong . . . "Pops" says the Giants and Jets have it . . . any takers? . . . by the way "Pops" is also taking over as official for interclass football . . . no more transistors! . . . Notre Dame takes all in the scholastic bid . . . Alabama has the number two spot . . . Hit the trotters this summer . . . Del Insko is a crook, but Stanley Dancer is okay . . . Clark Graebner showed well in battling to the finals at Forest Hills, but John Newcombe is too great.

Getting back to the Hilltop, let's go out and give both the soccer team and club football some strong support. The football club is a student supported activity so don't let them down . . . This is the year of the Knights.

Interclass Football Seniors Favored

By Brian O'Riordan

The Interclass Football season opened this Thursday with a game between the seniors and the sophomores. On Friday the sophs then took on the junior squad. The results of these two games were final after the press deadline.

It appears, however, that the seniors are the team to beat. They return with practically the same team they have had for the past two years. Their record for last year was 5-2, losing only one regular season game and a playoff game to last year's seniors. Defense is the name of the game to the senior squad and field position their specialty. On offense, the seniors have all-star Mike Montanari at end and Mike Horan at guard. All-stars on defense consist of Bob Booth at tackle and Bill Delaney at safety.

The junior class also has a fine returning team. All-stars like Mike Connors at end and Gary Hand at flankerback will be back. If anyone is going to beat the seniors it will probably be their successors. The junior defensive attack is led by all-star Mark Bluemling at tackle.

The sophs are reorganizing this season, and the team is being supported by a lot of new talent. The quarterback will either be Dick Curry or Ken Stilson.

As usual, great things are not expected from the frosh. However it should be noted that the freshmen squad is carrying a large offensive and defensive line.

This is the season's schedule:
Sept. 28 Sen. vs Soph
29 Frosh Vs Soph
Oct. 2 Jun. vs Frosh
2 Sen. vs Soph
3 Sen. vs Jun.
4 Soph vs Jun.
4 Sen. vs Frosh
5 Soph vs Frosh
5 Jun. vs Sen.
6 Jun. vs Frosh
9 Sen. vs Frosh
11 Jun. vs Soph

BURLINGTON, VT.

By Steve Kirk

In their season's debut, the Purple Knight soccer team suffered a 3-0 set-back at the hands of Plattsburgh State in a game played at Plattsburgh, N.Y. This could prove to be a very costly loss, because senior, All-State co-captain Ray Pentkowski was injured in the last quarter of the game and may be lost for the entire season due to a twisted right knee.

Plattsburgh showed a great deal of discipline and organization, scoring in each of the first three periods to defeat the SMC squad.

The Knights could never muster an offensive threat, as witnessed by the fact that the Plattsburgh goalie had only 8 saves, compared to 24 for the Purple and Gold's net-keeper, Jim Lawler, whose brilliant saves prevented the final score from being much higher. Another outstanding performance was turned in by Francis N'Jie, playing in his first varsity game.

The next game is Saturday afternoon against Lowell Tech and it will be a stiff test to see whether or not the Knights can rebound and return from Massachusetts with a victory.

The 1967 version of the St. Michael's College soccer team will be seeking to improve on its 6-3-1 record of last season. The record posted by the 1966 club was the best in the history of Purple Knight soccer and all are hopeful that this year will even be better.

There are 19 members on the team, headed by senior co-captains Ray Pentkowski from Proctor, Vt. and Tim "Feet" Shea from Yonkers, N.Y. Other seniors are Bob Winship and Jim Ryan from Springfield, Mass., Rick Moriarty from Wapping, Conn., and John LaCastro from Old Saybrook, Conn. Members of the Class of 1969 on the team are Tom Rooney, Jim Lawler, John "Rebel" Lavelle, and Frank Cullum. The Sophs who will be seeing their first varsity action are Francis N'Jie, Roger Michaud and Perry Gorman.

Coach Tony Jarumczek and co-captains Pentkowski and Shay are optimistic about the team's chances in the coming campaign. All members of the team have been back at school since September 12 busily preparing for the season.

Football Club Optimistic Opener At Hartford Oct. 7

By Paul Capodanno

The 1967 gridiron Knights, although optimistic about this season's schedule, are faced with the problem of filling several gaps opened up by last year's graduated seniors. The biggest chore confronting head coach Art Coggio is breaking in a new quarterback. Also, line coach Reg Cross has lost quite a few key personnel from both the offensive and defensive lines.

There are 17 returning lettermen from last year's squad which posted an impressive 2-1 record in their initial season. The team consists of 11 seniors, 11 juniors, 13 sophs, and 7 frosh.

Veteran Dick Thiesen, junior Jerry Stanwick and sophomore Bill Schild are battling for the QB job vacated by Ken Juall. Returning to the backfield will be Paul Labella, Bob Muehlberger, Leo McLaughlin, Moe O'Connell and Kevin Wiggin. They are expected to provide the Knights with a strong and fast running attack.

Paul Lynch, George Sousa, Jim Fallon and John Ficocello will be returning to anchor both the offensive and defensive lines. Receivers for the Knights are expected to be Ralph Musella and Chris Fialkovich. Rich Lawler and Paul Seymour will add strength to the linebacking corps.

Some good looking new-comers include Mike Jackson, Bayard Trachy, Mike Chesney, Sean Moore, Jerry Flanagan and Bill Trudeau.

The team opens its season at Sterling Field in West Hartford, Conn., against Hartford. Game time is 1:30. Two weeks later the Knights return home for that long-awaited Homecoming on Oct. 21 with Utica supplying the opposition.

Fall Golf Team

By John Keyes

This year's Fall edition of the golf team broke slowly from the starting gate Saturday by finishing a disappointing fifth in a six-team tournament at Plattsburgh. The team was led by senior Bill Carlton, who shot an 86. This overall poor showing, however, is no way indicative of the potential that this squad has.

In the preliminary rounds on Wednesday, Carlton, along with fellow classmates Kevin Deary and Joe Zelenksi, had a 78 score while junior Brian Murphy shot an 81. Due to the rain on Saturday, the course was in poor condition as is evidenced by Deary's jump of 20 strokes for a 98 tally on the muddied links.

On October 7, the team will play in the Eastern College Athletic Conference preliminaries in an attempt to fulfill the hopes expressed by "Doc" Jacobs that the golf team would enjoy a successful season. The finals will be held October 17 at Bethpage, Long Island.
